

AIM E-News Late June Edition 2017 – Number 109 – EXTRACTS

Announcement Of ACE NPO Funding For AIM

AIM has been awarded £1.2m from 2018-22 by Arts Council England (ACE), to help museums and heritage organisations prosper. AIM will be joining the National Portfolio as a Sector Support Organisation – one of six specifically supporting museums.

The funding will enable AIM to build on its current ACE funded Hallmarks Programme, which helps museums to understand and use the AIM Hallmarks of Prospering Museums to strengthen their organisations. Please read the full announcement here: Announcement Of ACE NPO Funding For AIM

AIM Launches New Success Guide On Heritage Capital Projects

Museums and heritage sites that are about to embark on major capital projects can now prepare for the work and challenges ahead thanks to a recently launched free new publication by the Association of Independent Museums (AIM) and Biffa Award.

'Successfully Managing Capital Projects' has been written on behalf of AIM by Bill Ferris OBE DL, Chief Executive of Chatham Historic Dockyard Trust, who has extensive experience of managing major heritage capital projects over many years, including the award-winning Chatham Dockyard World Heritage Discovery Centre.

The guide, which has been partly funded by Artelia UK, has also been written to share useful learning from the AIM Biffa Award National Heritage Landmark Partnership Scheme. Click here for the guide and more information: AIM Launches New Guidance On Heritage Capital Projects
